Atlanta International School

Atlanta International School was founded in 1984 and opened its doors to students in 1985. The school was the vision of local families and leaders who wanted a different sort of private school in Atlanta.

One where language learning would be centered - both as a skill and a key to cultural understanding. And one where difference and diversity would be embraced.

These guiding principles are as relevant today as they were then, in our intentionally inclusive community. Collaborating across cultures and languages is just our way of life at AIS.

Arts: Theatre, Music, Visual arts, and Media & Film emphasize this creativity and innovation, and also focus on students' learning the craft; the processes and techniques of an art form.

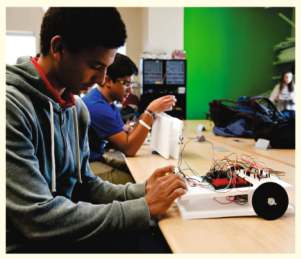

Campus: Atlanta International School's 13.5 acre campus is situated in the Garden Hills neighborhood, in the heart of Atlanta's Buckhead district. The main Secondary School building was designed by classical architect Philip Schutze and is a historic landmark.

Originally the site of North Fulton High School, the building was formally re-dedicated as Atlanta International School on April 27, 1996. Since then there have been major renovations and additions to the campus, including a dedicated Arts, Science and Design building, a new Primary School Center and a new Early Learning Center.

Library: The library at AIS is a vibrant and inclusive hub offering multiple resources, programs and activities that support and enrich the IB curriculum. By developing the love of reading, lifelong learning and research skills, the library prepares our students to become efficient and ethical users of information and to face the challenges of a global, and sometimes overwhelming, information environment.

The Headwaters School of today arose from the 2011 merger of the Khabele School and Primavera Montessori School, two institutions founded in 2001. Even as our school has evolved to meet the challenges of the future, we are proud that several of the original founders and guides are still at Headwaters.

The merger created a fully-integrated school to serve children 18 months old through 12th grade, and in 2016 all three campuses were unified under the name Headwaters School, symbolizing the journey of discovery and growth that takes place at our school.

In 2014, we launched the renowned International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme for our high school juniors and seniors–the challenging capstone of a Headwaters education. Headwaters was one of the earliest adopters of the IB framework in Austin because it aligns so well with our values and prepares students to succeed in college and life. In fact, Montessori education and International Baccalaureate share a commitment to growing compassionate global citizens who are self-directed lifelong learners.

Reflecting our heritage as a school founded by teachers, our inspiring guides remain central to our success and the heart of our culture of intellectual mentorship. As our community envisions Headwaters' next 25 years, we are deeply committed to attracting and retaining inspiring educators, enhancing our programs, and reimagining our education facilities so our students can solve problems big and small.
